Measles:

The World Health Organisation (WHO) has said that low measles vaccination coverage is a threat to global health. So both children and adults should check that they have vaccination coverage and get it up to date where necessary.

Malaria:

Note that malaria is endemic in some regions. We recommend preventive treatment with antimalarials.

Coronavirus:

Due to the increasing number of infections with the respiratory disease COVID-19, increased health checks and longer waiting times during travel must currently be expected. Due to cases of illness in almost all countries of the world, there is a general risk of infection via droplet infection. Travellers should therefore inform themselves about the spread of the disease and possible protective measures in their destination. They should also take into account the different standards and capacities of health care systems.

Pregnant women:

Note that pregnant women face the following health risks:

- Chikungunya fever

Children:

Note that children face the following health risks:

- Dengue fever

Yellow fever:

A yellow fever vaccination is required if arriving from regions infected by yellow fever. Appropriate evidence should be carried. All travellers over the age of 12 months must have the vaccination. This also applies to people in transit for over 12 hours at the airport in a country that is infected with yellow fever.

Countries with a current risk of yellow fever infection:

Africa:

Equatorial Guinea, Ethiopia, Angola, Benin, Burkina Faso, Burundi, Democratic Republic of Congo, Cameroon, Côte d'Ivoire, Eritrea, Gabon, Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Guinea-Bissau, Kenya, Congo, Liberia, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Nigeria, Rwanda, Senegal, Sierra Leone, Somalia, Sudan, Southern Sudan, Tanzania, Togo, Chad, Uganda, Central African Republic, Zambia

Central and South America:

Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Ecuador, French Guiana, Guyana, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Suriname, Trinidad and Tobago, Venezuela

Final requirements:

Please note that health information always depends on the health of the individual traveller and that it is no substitute for consulting a doctor or tropical medicine professional. Entry, visa and vaccination requirements can always change at short notice, and specific exceptions may occur. Only the relevant diplomatic mission can make legally binding statements or provide information above and beyond that given here. Please ask about this in advance.
